THE NEW SYNAGOGUE

Some Idea of Its Beautiful Finish and Furnishings.

MEMORIAL WINDOWS SPLENDID

And Carven Pulpit and Altar Presented by Members of the Congregation--Interior Decorations of the Most Beautiful Temple of Worship in Wheeling-The Dedication.

The new Jewish synagogue on Eoff street is rapidly nearing completion. In the past week the painters and grainers have been busy finishing up the details of the woodwork. The gas fixtures are all finished, with the excepthe next few days. Yesterday the seats pared. tion of the two main chandeliers in the strived for the main auditorium. They are of the very latest pattern, designed for comfort and ease as well as for orna mentation, all the benches being made of heavy oak, highly polished and cla borately carved.

One of the most attractive features of the auditorium is the altar and pulpit, donated by Mr. Samuel Bloch. The former is made of white pine, Roman-esque in style, and covered entirely with scroll work of handsome design, and foreign in white and gold. The and finished in white and gold. The pulpit is made of heavy-carved oak, in natural finish, handsomely carved in unique designs in relief, the main fea ture consisting of a double row of carved oak columns, and presents a very pleasing appearance, being in keeping with the entire room, which is fin ished in white with oak wood work.

stained glass windows which The stained glass windows, which have attracted so much attention from visitors during the past week, are a beautiful feature, which not only add lustre and beauty to the whole room, but shed a luxuriant light over the whole building. All the windows, with the exception of the memorial windows, are of the same pattern, and made in panels of stained and opalescent glass of rich and harmonious colors, which give them an air of great splendor.

The principal memorial window, presented by Mr. Henry Speyer, is a very striking and beautiful picture; and consists of two panels, one representing sists of two panels, one representing Abraham about to offer up his son Isaac, as a sacrifice. Both figures have a life like appearance, the flesh tints in a life like appearance, the flesh tints in the nude figure of Isaac being especially good, and brought out in strong contrast to the dark, rich robe worn by Abraham. The other panel represents Moses with tablets of stone in his arm looking out over the people. His face in quiet repose, is full of beauty and majesty, which impresses one very strongly, the figure, full of dignity, is of large proportions and clothed in robes of rich colors.

It is now definitely settled that the dedicatory exercises will take place on April 8, at 3 p. m. The occasion will be made memorable by exercises of an interesting character. Two noted Jewish theologians; Rev. Dr. Grossman, of Detroit, and Dr. Benjamin Szold, of Baltimore, will be here to participate in the exercises. Both gentlemen will deliver addresses on that day.

A Birthday Present.

A Birthday Present.

Yesterday was the birthday of Manager D. J. Spragne, of "A Social Session." Last night at the Grand, when the curtain went up on the third act, Manager Genther, of the theatre, brought Manager Sprague out upon the stage, and with an explanation to the audience that it was Manager Sprague with a beautiful diamond stud, on behalf of the members of the company. Col. Genther made a brief speech, to which Mr. Sprague was too much overcome to respond at length, being taken entirely by surprise. He remarked, however, that he appreciated the gift.

GOL. LOCKWOOD DEAD.

The Famous Commander of the "Bloody Seventh" Gone.

PASSING AWAY AT A RIPE OLD AGE.

A Familiar Figure at all Local Reunions and Soldiers' Gatherings, with his Tattered hat, Battered Canteen and Uniform that had seen Much Service

Col. Jonathan H. Lockwood, of Moundsville, the famous commander of the "Bloody Seventh" West Virginia regiment in the late war and one of the best known men in the Ohio valley, died at his residence in Moundsville at l p. m. yesterday. Col. Lockwood has been suffering slightly from indispositien for some time. Several months ago he received severe injuries from being struck by a train, and while he apparently recovered from these, his constitution was left in an impaired condition, which, combined with his extreme age, left him unable to resist disease. For several days, Col. Lockwood's life has been despaired of, and the end came has been despaired of, and the end came peacefully, the grizzled old veteran passing away without a struggle.

By the death of Colonel Lockwood, one of the most familiar figures at soldiers' reunions and G. A. R. gatherings in this vicinity is removed. Whereever his old comrades gathered he was seen, usually mounted, with the hat which he wore in the service, his uniform worn and tattered with service, and his old cauteen, hearing the marks of several bullets. He was beloved by all his old soldiers, and was a conspicuous figure up until he was disabled by ous figure up until he was disabled by ous figure up until he was disabled by disease.

Col. Johnathan Lockwood was born at Dillie's Bottom, Belmont county, Ohio, opposite Moundsville, on February 19, 1808. He was reared and educated in Belmont county, but early located in Moundsville, where he spent the remainder of his life. When the war broke out he was one of the first to enlist in the Union army, and was active in organizing the West Virginia contingent. He was commissioned Colonel of the Seventh West Virginia regiment, and served with distinction throughout the entire war, Since the close of the war Colonel Lockwood has made his home in Moundsville, where he accumulated considerable property. He was an active G. A. R. man, Colonel Lockwood leaves two children, Mrs. R. C. Skinner, of Cincinnati, and Mr. Joseph A. Lockwood, of Moundsville.

Death of Adam Eberle.

MR. HENNIG TO-NIGHT.

His Engagement Under the Auspices of the Press Club Promises Well,

Mr. Frank Hennig, the eminent comedian, of this city, opened his starring tour last night at Washington, Pa., as "Othello." This evening, supported by a capable and experienced company of a dozen ladies and gentlemen, he will appear at the Wheeling Opera House in "Othello," opening an engagement under the auspices of the Wheeling Press Club. To-morrow afternoon Mr. Hennig will appear as "Hamlet," and to-morrow night as "Richard III." Seats have sold unusually well at C. A. House's sold unusually well at C. A. House's music store. There will be great crowds from surrounding towns besides. Aside from the fact that this en-gagement is for the benofit of the working force of the Wheeling papers, and ought therefore to be a big papers, and ought therefore to be a big success, there is every reason to believe that Mr. Hennig should play to crowded houses. He is a young Wheeling man, just entering upon a glorious career, and already has a national reputation as an actor. Really there are lew finer tragedians on the American stage to-day.

"A Hole in the Ground." Barry Maxwell, the old-time negro-minstrel, is with the "Hole in the Ground" company and does a "whiteface" part, assuming the role of the base ball umpire who is on his way back to New York after parting with everything but his gloves and mask. This is the part that was played last year by Julian Mitchell. Maxwell is said to have made a great hit with it, said to have made a great hit with it, han lling it in his own original way and making it stand out conspicuously as a feature of the play. Maxwell will be remembered as the office-seeking darkey in the "Texas Steer," who desired to be minister to Dahomey. Like a number of old minstrels he has made a success of farce-comedy roles and will doubtless appear altogether as a white-feeless appear altogether as a white-face comedian hereafter.
